

INTRODUCTION

Intelligent mobile robot is an important research direction of the robot field, and it is one of the most active research themes. An introduction to the design and implementation of intelligent mobile robot systems will be discussed in this course. This course will cover the fundamental elements of mobile robot systems from a computational standpoint. Issues such as software control architectures, sensor interpretation, map building and navigation will be covered, drawing from current research in the field. Participants will also design and build a small mobile robot and program it to perform simple tasks in real-world environments.

The main aim of this faculty development programme is for demonstrating advances in research and development of intelligent mobile robots in the following three major headings:

- Analyze and evaluate a wider range of sensor processing, architectures and control mechanisms for mobile robots.
- Various approaches to incorporating intelligence in mobile robot behavior.
- Critically evaluate and hence determine the most important paradigms currently proposed for mobile robot behavior, including the ability to reason.

The major objectives of this programme are:

- To create awareness about the present status of mobile robots in manufacturing engineering.
- To get a thorough knowledge about recent research techniques and tools for doing research in the field of mobile robots.
- To motivate the engineering staffs towards research and new techniques, etc.

COURSE CONTENT:

- ❖ Recent Advances in Mobile Robots field
- ❖ Research scope in Mobile Robots field
- ❖ Tools and techniques for Robotics Research
- ❖ Design and Development of Autonomous Robots
- ❖ Multi-Objective optimization tools, etc.
